It's Father's Day, take Dad away for something we both enjoy. Check out these easy and fun activities. It's Father's Day, take Dad away for something we both enjoy. Check out these easy and fun activities. Fishing Whether it's extreme, deep-sea, or a trip to the neighborhood lake, your fishing trip can be a great time to join your father and nature. Book a night trip or pick up abbot early for a day of fishing and knitting. Outdoor music festival The warm June weather is the perfect opportunity to dad out a music festival. Whether rock, soul, classical, or country, there are plenty of opportunities to check out great music in your area. Paintball Sign up for a trip to paintball country and let Dad discover your inner warrior. With indoor outdoor venues, you are sure to have fun in a little friendly battle. Find a local paintball venue here. Volunteer Take a day with dad and give back to the community volunteer for a local soup kitchen, community garden, or information program. Turn your time with Dad into a meaningful opportunity to help those around you. Spa day Everyone deserves to be pampered, even Dad. Book him a trip to the spa for a massage or haircut, or even a professional shaver. Archives tour the history buff, check your local library or historical society and ask if tours are available in the piles and archives. Many organizations are happy to show you the behind-the-scenes impersonator of the city's history. Battle reenactment Hop on a time machine and head into the 19th or 18th century to watch the Civil or Revolutionary War reenactment. You and Dad are going to enjoy a slice of history. Showing dad to a driving mother? Contact your local auto clubs to find a nearby show of amazing vintage hot-rods or the latest electric car. Shopping Even Dad likes to go shopping, but it just can't be at the mall. Take Dad to all his favorite stores and spend the day buying anything from wrenches to antiques. Cooking class Book a cooking class with dad that explores his favorite kitchen. Dad can take advantage of the opportunity to spice up his abilities, or maybe he'll show you some things you didn't even know he had!
